

1. Joost SooySooy:Joost b. APR 1685, Holland, occupation mariner-merchant, m. 19 Aug 1707, in New York City, Sarah VanTienhavenVanTienhaven:Sarah, b. 1 Jan 1681, (daughter of Lucas VanTienhavenVanTienhaven:Lucas and Tyryntie (Catherine) BordingBording:Tyryntie (Catherine)). Joost died 28 Sep 1737, buried: Lower Bank, N.J. Joost came to America about 1705. He carried on the work started by the Dutch West India Trading Company. He was a member of the Dutch Reformed Church where his three children were baptized.

Joost and his family left New Amsterdam shortly after his three children were born, settling in Monmouth County, N.J. on the Cheesequake Creek. He was naturalized a loyal citizen of the province of New Jersey by special act of the New Jersey legislature.

He sailed down the New Jersey coast, entered the Mullica River, and settled in Washington Township at what is presently called Lower Bank, the second white settlement in South Jersey. Fort Nassau on the Delaware was the first. There he and his sons purchased thousands of acres from Samuel Driver and became prominent citizens in the area.

He and his wife, Sarah, are burried on the property that was his plantation and is now the abandoned Pacemaker Yacht Company.

3. Joost (Joseph) SooySooy:Joost (Joseph) b. 24 Oct 1710, New Amsterdam, m. 3 Dec 1731, Elizabeth SmithSmith:Elizabeth, b. 6 Mar 1720, (daughter of John SmithSmith:John and Mary _____:Mary). Some believe that Joost Sooy, Sr. and Sarah Van Tienhoven had a son Joost who died as an infant, thus this Joost is often called Joost II rather than Yoost Jr. The English equivalent of Yoost is Joseph.

The Joseph Sooy II family bible is owned by Norman H. Sooy, Kansas City, Mo. Known as the Baskett Bible and printed in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1749, the bible contains the birth records of Joseph and Elizabeth's children and John and Mary Smith's (Elizabeth's parents) children.

Joseph was a slave holder as evidenced by the following advertisement that appeared in the Pennsylvania Gazette on 8/9/1750 which names Joseph as a former owner of a runaway slave:

"Run away from the subscriber hereof, a likely young negro fellow about five feet inches high, named Lot, took with him when he went away a flowered jacket and breeches, an ozenbrigs shirt, and a fine shirt with ruffles at the bosom, old shoes, no stocking, and some money. He talks very good English.

It is supposed he is gone towards Allen-town, and from thence to Great Egg Harbor, for the formerly lived there with one Higbee, and afterwards with Joseph Sooy.

Whoever secures the said fellow, that his master may have him again, shall have three pounds reward, and reasonable charges, paid by Thomas Hooten.

N.B. All master of vessels, or others, are forbid to carry him off, or entertain, him at their peril."

Joseph was a privateersman during the Revolutionary War. It was related in a contemporary paper of the time that Captain Joseph Sooy of Great Egg Harbor sighted a suspicious looking vessel at the Little Egg Harbor Inlet and, not seeing movement about the deck, went aboard with some show of authority to inquire of the ship. Upon going aboard he was seized by several men and made prisoner, and taken to New York. The ship turned out to be one of His Majesty's ship loaded with foot soldiers. When Joseph returned to Great Egg Harbor he made oath that he did not assist the British ship.³

Joseph's will dated 8/26/1801 and proved 10/6/1802 mentions his "seven daughters" but only names Millicent and Sarah Collins.

 - iv Rebecca SooySooy:Rebecca m. Daniel LeedsLeeds:Daniel.
15. Phoebe SooySooy:Phoebe b. 19 Apr 1759, d. 19 Oct 1835. Phoebe's marital status is somewhat of a mystery. The Sooy Family Genealogy lists Joseph Mathis as Phoebe Sooy's husband (page 81) and does not list any children for the couple. It also states (page 66) that the author, Irwin Gladstone Sooy, believes that the Phoebe mentioned in Leah Blackman's "History of Little Egg Harbor Township" as Ebenezer Sooy's mother was the daughter of Ebenezer Tucker.³ If this is so, why then isn't Ebenezer's last name Tucker instead of Sooy?

Also, Ebenezer Tucker's marital status is well documented. Ebenezer Tucker's second wife was Phoebe, daughter of John and Susannah Ridgway.

Leah Blackman (page 360) states "If I have been rightly informed, Joseph, son of Yose Sooy, was the father of Phoebe Sooy, who was the mother of Capt. Ebenezer Sooy, of Bass River."⁴ This is Leah's way of inferring that Ebenezer is the illegitimate son of Phebe and would explain the fact that Ebenezer maintained the Sooy last name. When she wrote her history in 1880, a respectable lady would not overtly state that a child was illegitimate.

The Little Egg Harbor death records list Ebenezer, age 68, dying on 10/26/1860 as the son of Phebe Sooy. Furthermore, the Ebenezer Sooy bible records found at Atlantic County Historical Society state that "Phebe Sooy departed this life 19th October 1835 age 76 years and six months". Note that in both cases Phebe's last name is listed as Sooy which support's Leah Blackman's inference that Phoebe was not married when she gave birth to Ebenezer. It supports the theory that Phoebe was never married.

Murray and Jean Harris did extensive research on the Mathis family in the writing of their book entitled "The Mathis Family of Little Egg Harbor." Their research failed to discover that Phoebe Sooy married Joseph Mathis as maintained in the Sooy Family Genealogy. That along with the data discussed in the preceding paragraphs would lead this author to believe that the statement that Phoebe Sooy married Joseph Mathis is in error.
